

Ballad of rats

It's a life sad life full of tension and no hope and no hope for new invention just counting days passing by

The sky is grey and rats are softly whispering and death is cheerfully whistling he is the star of lonely days

Every day
I wake up full of sorrow
seem's to be that now I have to follow the dark way into emptiness

The sky is grey and rats....

I see you making stupid gestures and I hope you omit your goddamned lectures
I'm not in need for a lullaby

The sky is grey and rats...